

```
--- djangoapi\core\myLib\baseUserSerializer.py ---
```

```
from rest_framework import serializers
```

```
from django.contrib.auth import get_user_model
```

```
from djangoapi.settings import DJANGO_SUPERUSER_USERNAME
```

```
class BaseUserSerializer(serializers.Serializer):
```

```
    def get_creator_user(self):
```

```
        request = self.context.get('request')
```

```
        # self.instance es el objeto de la DB.
```

```
        # Si existe, estamos en un UPDATE (PUT/PATCH).
```

```
        # Si es None, estamos en un CREATE (POST).
```

```
        if self.instance is None:
```

```
            if request and request.user.is_authenticated:
```

```
                return request.user
```

```
            else:
```

```
                return
```

```
        get_user_model().objects.all().get(username=DJANGO_SUPERUSER_USERNAME)
```

```
    else:
```

```
        # En un PUT/PATCH, nos aseguramos de que el campo 'user'
```

```
        # no se altere o mantenga el valor que ya tenía el objeto.
```

```
        return self.instance.user
```